

The Chicago & Northwestern railway is to build a $50,000 depot in LaCrosse, in the heart of the city.

Sam Jones, the revivalist, is going to tackle a lot of hard sinners this winter. He intends to labor with congress.

Boston has had John L. Sullivan and now it wants Carl Schurz. Boston is an egotistical place. It will be waiting Higgins next.

Those who have been disappointed in not getting offices under the administration, are spending much of their time in trying to make a democratic ticket that will beat Cleveland.

Ex-Senator Cameron writes to a friend in Washington in regard to the published statements concerning Mrs. Cameron's condition, and says, "They have been greatly exaggerated. She has not lost her reason and is not insane. She is very sick physically, but her mind is as clear and unclouded as it ever was."

Congressman Hewitt, at a recent meeting of merchants to discuss proper means to promote the interests of the American ocean carrier, said that in congress he should be prepared to protect the interest of the merchants of New York. It is this means anything it means that he will resist the conduct of Mr. Vilas, whose outrageous refusal to obey the law of congress has greatly injured the commerce, not only of New York, but of the entire nation. The Gazette quotes Mr. Hewitt because Mr. Hewitt is a Member, but is not a bogus reformer.

The Postmaster General, after a careful investigation of the charges and insinuations against Mrs. Blackstone, of Paxton, Illinois, has shown his opinion of their truth, by sending her a commission as postmistress of that place.—Ac-corder.

Judging from reports that have come from Paxton, and also from personal interviews with those who know something of the Illinois postmistress, it is not strange that she received a commission from the post master general. It is very like the administration to do a thing of that kind.

The Norristown Herald tells of a man carrying a cross-cut saw and a broad-axe who called at the office of a New York daily paper, a few days ago, and applied for a position on the artistic staff. He said he was a lumberman from Wisconsin, had had fifteen years' experience in chopping wood, and he thought he could back out a few illustrations for the paper which would be a marked improvement over those it had recently published. It is not strange that he was not employed, as newspapers which print "portraits" of prominent persons, want to get as far from life and art as possible.

The Scooba, (Mississippi) Herald, is a good democratic paper, and gives all the news in its locality. Well, here is a piece of information which the Gazette republishes at the risk of being charged with wailing the "bloody shirt." We understand that two or three of the "interfered" gave a negro about a hundred lashes Tuesday. The gentleman of color was musing himself too conspicuous in his work of influencing his friends to vote for his man, and the boys thought it best to give him a gentle dressing off. It is needless to say that he was not slow in putting space between the police and himself after the boys turned him loose. The independent and the democrats who have been trying to prove that the color line is the source to learn abolished, will have a chance to learn and inwardly digest the meaning of the paragraph from the Scooba Herald.

ANOTHER STRANGE SUICIDE.
There is no explaining such a freak of the human mind that leads one to deliberately take his own life, when to the public there seems to be no cause why such a tragic step should be taken. Men and women in apparently strong manhood and womanhood, with nothing lacking so far as the world's goods are concerned, become tired of the life that now is, and deliberately put themselves into the one who by statistics no one can understand. It takes courage to do this, but it is done every day, and why, the most advanced philosophy does not explain.

The latest suicide of this description is that of the Robt. Alden S. Sanborn, of Madison, the probable judge of Dane county. He left home last Tuesday, but by no one knew, but his absence did not create suspicion. On Thursday evening two boys were hunting four miles from Madison on the Milwaukee division of the Northwestern railway, and found the body of Judge Sanborn lying in the woods. He had evidently been dead several days. Near the body was a bottle labeled laudanum, and was nearly empty. The gold-headed cane was stuck in the ground, and near by lay his hat. The indications pointed to the fact that he had deliberately committed suicide. The only motive assigned for the deed is that once in a while melancholy took possession of him. Some time ago his wife died, and later one of his sons was drowned. Afterwards he married his servant girl. He was 65 years old and had been a resident of Madison since 1864. He was elected county judge in 1877, and was re-elected last spring. At one time he was treasurer of Milwaukee county, and had been city attorney and mayor of Madison.

NO. 7,339.

Joseph C. Mackin, the notorious democratic forger and ballot swindler, has been taken to Joliet, and is now in the penitentiary and upon the back of a striped shirt appear the figure, 7,339, by which number he will be known during his stay in prison.

He did not want to be subjected to the public gaze in being transported from Chicago to Joliet, and requested the sheriff to make his journey as private as possible; neither did he wish to be annoyed by the ubiquitous newspaper reporters. His wish was modest and was respected. He was put in a state room in a sleeper, and during the journey of forty miles was not noticed. He was taken off the train nearly a quarter of a mile from the Joliet depot, put in a close carriage, and was rapidly driven to the penitentiary. There the measure was questioned about his religion, education, occupation, habits and so on, then plunged into a bath and a striped suit placed on him. He was then taken to a dark cell where solitary and alone he would have time to ponder upon the danger of tampering with the votes of the people. Mr. Mackin will be put at work the same as other prisoners and in all respects will be dealt with as other criminals are.

It is well that Joseph C. Mackin has been sent to the penitentiary. Justice has been done, and the fine political workers in Chicago have been taught a valuable lesson. It is time that this should be done. The ballot box must be protected, and it makes no difference who commits the wrong against it—democrats or republicans—they should speedily be sent the way that Mackin has gone. There is no safety in any other course than that of swift and proper punishment.

SOME FREE TRADE FALLACIES.

There promises to be a lively time in congress this winter over the tariff question. Morrison will try his horizontal scheme again, and Frank Hurd, of Ohio, although out of congress now, being beaten on account of his ultra free trade doctrine, will make a vigorous fight for his pet theory. He is free a bright fellow, but he has free trade on the brain, and goes mad whenever any one corners him, which is quite often. He was speaking about hard times the other day, and jumped at the conclusion that if there were to be unrestricted commercial relations between the United States and all the rest of the world, there would be no finding in keeping everyone at work and in finding a market for all that American skilled labor could produce. He clings to this belief, and attaches to it is his further belief that the prices of labor would be lowered any more than would the laborer's living expenses.

It is a little surprising that a man so promising as Mr. Hurd can learn wisdom by experience. But he doesn't, and his party, as a whole, is quite as stubborn as he. Mr. Hurd should not forget, and certainly he has not forgotten, that twice in the past his party reduced the business of the country to this standpoint, and he knows the result as well as any one else. The wisest statesmen then were dumb-founded by the result of free trade, and even the stubborn Benton, one of the giants of the senate, was forced to admit that free trade, when tried in the fire of experience, was nothing but dross.

But coming down to the present time and more directly answering Mr. Hurd, let us see the difference between free trade England and protected America. The depression in England for excess that of the United States even through for fifty years to establish trading posts in nearly every part of the world to which its seaboard ships make regular voyages. Free trade would not build up and extend American markets. Its adoption would be a reduction both in the price of labor and in the amount of work done.

and money to the work of millions of the United States to the goods made by the ill-paid laborers of Europe would transfer a million and a half of persons from idleness to industry. There are three or four cases, says a prominent economist, why these men are idle, but the tariff can not be charged with the misfortune. "The government of the United States has done nothing to encourage her shipping interests for several years. If a wise policy had been pursued, 200,000 of these men would now be engaged either handling ships at sea or building and repairing them on shore, and it would have required another 100,000 to furnish them with food and with material on which to work. That would have disposed of one-fifth of Mr. Hurd's men. Then again, last year railroad building fell off 10,000 miles, which took from the laboring men of the country $200,000,000. This came, too, just at a time when because of the boom for four years after 1879, 1,500,000 foreigners came to this country in two years. Is it not a wonder that there are not more than 1,500,000 men out of work? Could free trade have made this number less?"

It may be proper in some respects to wisely revise the tariff law. For instance, an article regarding which it has served its purpose, or taking the industry which it was given to protect, and which has reached a point where it can successfully fight its own battle, the tariff should be either removed or modified as the case demands; but the moment any party follows the lead of Frank Hurd and that class of democrats, and opens this country to the unrestricted competition of European labor, it will find out that there will soon be more than a million and a half of idle workmen, and that the industries of the country will sink lower than they did when democratic free trade paralyzed the country in 1840 and 1857.

It is worth while to pay some attention to history, and learn wisdom from experience, but it seems that Postmaster General Vilas in his management of the foreign mail service, and Frank Hurd in his clamoring for free trade, do not seem to profit either by history or experience.

FIGHTING CONTINUED

SERVIANS AND THE BULGARIANS
KEEP UP THE BUSINESS

Of Keeping Down the Census Returns—Alexander Reported to Have Humiliated Himself to the Sultan—The Diplomats Still at Work.

VIENNA, Nov. 20.—The Serbian official report of the battle at Silivritza denies that the Servians were repulsed. It represents that the Bulgarians succeeded in approaching the Serbian position, and under cover of a heavy fog, but upon being discovered were attacked, and after some sharp fighting retired back to the trenches at that place. An attack was then made for the purpose of dislodging the Bulgarians, which lasted two hours, after which the Servians retired with an estimated loss of 300 men.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Perhaps one of the most convincing proofs that the Servians have met with reverses is the fact that the Serbian headquarters, which last Wednesday were fixed at Saribrod, after the Serbian successes, have been withdrawn to First, fully thirty miles to the rear of where they were formerly established.

Bulgarian accounts of the fighting state that the Servian loss at Silivritza was three times greater than that given in the official accounts, and actually exceeded the total loss since the outbreak of hostilities. Prince Alexander was killed in the thick of the battle from beginning to end and performed many deeds of valor. His success has revived the courage of those going to the front, and inspired them to the utmost exertions to prevent a retreat.

A dispatch from Zastibrod says that two Bulgarian battalions were defeated Thursday in an engagement with the Servians on the road between Brannic and Perut. The Bulgarians lost 500 men killed and wounded. The Servians captured sixty prisoners and a quantity of ammunition and provisions. It is also reported that Gen. Bontsky's division has advanced around Silivritza and occupied the road between that place and Sofia.

SOFIA, Nov. 20.—The Bulgarians Thursday repulsed the Servian attacks on Rostyni and drove the enemy back eight kilometers. Subsequently the Servians opened a strong artillery fire from the right wing. The Bulgarians stoutly defended their position and again repulsed the Servians. The Servian force consisted of three battalions of infantry, one of artillery, and a squadron of cavalry, the latter finally belonging to the Bulgarians.

The latter further repulsed a Servian attack on Glintzi, taking several prisoners. The behavior of the Bulgarian troops was admirable.

NOT A HOPEFUL OUTLOOK.
LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Standard distrusts the hopeful views of the Balkan states expressed by the emperor William in his address to the Reichstag Thursday and argues that it would be more desirable and to the point if he were to speak of the present relations of Austria and Russia.

ROMANIA'S PROTESTS.
BUCHAREST, Nov. 20.—The Roumanian government has issued a protest against the attitude of the neutrality of the Danube by Servia.

THE BASE BALL LEAGUE.
NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The last day of the annual meeting of the National Base Ball league was held in Room F of the Fifth Avenue hotel Thursday. The meeting was in session nearly all day, and a large number of important business was transacted. The "Big Four" question was brought up, and the association decided in favor of Detroit. The Buffalo and Providence teams stay in the association. It is very probable that before the season commences next year the Nationals of Washington will buy the Buffalo franchise and take their place in the league. Nothing was done about the $2,000 salary and the advance money rules so that they remain the same as ever.

A Teacher's Fatal Anger.
BOSTON, Nov. 20.—A teacher in the Bonnot school at Somerville, Minnie Turner, asked a boy named Wiley, aged 9, who had made a certain noise, if he did not make it, but he knew who did. The voluntary offer to be a tattler so incensed the teacher that she put a lot of pepper in the boy's mouth, making him cry out in agony. The boy's mouth was horribly burned and the next day he took to the sick room and died three days later of diphtheria. The family will not prosecute providing the teacher leaves Somerville.

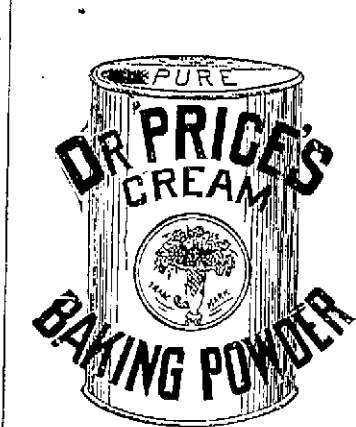

Possible Flight Against Edmunds.
MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—On account of the appearance of an editorial in the Argus, ex-Governor Smith's organ, severely disparaging Senator Edmunds' value as a legislator, and comparing him to his disavowed, with men of greater social qualifications, it is said by politicians that ex-Governor Smith will contest Edmunds' re-election, and that this is his first move.

Joe Mackin "Goes Down."
CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Joseph C. Mackin, charged of perjury in connection with the ballot fraud of November, 1874, was taken to Joliet penitentiary Thursday. He was shipped out of jail very quietly by a private conveyance, much to the disgust of a large crowd of people who were watching the main entrance, and taken in a close carriage to the train, which left at 12:10 p. m.

Enrolled in a Mail Van.
NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Gottlieb Vartz, aged 33, a workman in the Empire Brewery in West Tenth street, fell into a vat of boiling mail Thursday afternoon and was scalded to death.

The railway commission of Iowa reports 2,478 miles of track in that state, of which 1,250 miles have been constructed within a year. Of the gross earnings $27.9 per cent. the train conductor's share.
